NEW YORK (AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said Sunday it gained many gains in the fight against discrimination during 1960. It added, "The civil rights victory is just around the corner."

But the organization also noted there were some developments from the opposite standpoint as it issued a 72-page report and financial accounting for 1960.

17 Held As 'Riders' List Soars To 216

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The number of "Freedom Riders" arrested in Jackson soared over the 200 mark Sunday as 17 travelers tried unsuccessfully to integrate terminal waiting rooms.

Nine riders—eight Negroes and one white—came here by train from New Orleans. They were arrested when they refused to obey police orders to leave a white waiting room.

Less than three hours later, seven white and one Negro riders came in by bus from Montgomery, Ala. Police took them into custody when they sought to integrate the Negro and the white waiting rooms.

Jackson police now have arrested 216 riders since May 24. The Alabama riders had announced they came to talk over segregation policies with Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett with a view toward mediation and a fruitful exchange of views.

If they failed to meet with Barnett, a spokesman said they will go to jail.

After getting off the bus in Jackson, the Negro woman rider approached police Capt. J. L. Ray and asked if a representative of the governor was present.

When told he wasn't, she asked if the group could see the governor Sunday afternoon.

"It is my information," Ray answered, "that he's very busy and he can't see you."

Five white riders then entered the Negro waiting room. The Negro woman and two white riders went into the white waiting room. Police ordered them to leave and arrested them as they tried to get service at crowded cafeteria counters.

Accident Toll High In State

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sixteen persons died in accidents in Pennsylvania over the weekend, seven of them on the highway. Five were fire victims, with four of these victims of one blaze.

In the other accidents: An infant was struck by a truck driven by his father on the family farm, a steel worker was struck fatally by a bar while at work, a man fell in a ditch while walking away from an accident involving his car, and another man was killed when jacks holding up his car collapsed.

Leon Hanes, 27, saved two of his children and he and his two youngest perished Saturday as he tried to take them from their flaming home in Johnsonburg, Elk County.

Hemingway Was Like A Ghost Of Man

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Author Ernest Hemingway, seven months before his death, was "like a ghost of a man," in the words of two professors quoted in a copyright story in the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune.

The story Sunday by Tribune writer Victor Cohn told of a visit to Hemingway last November by Prof. Leslie Fiedler and Seymour Betsky of Montana State University.

Their impressions of the visit were told to the writer by Prof. Philip Young of Pennsylvania State University, a Hemingway authority, and confirmed by the two professors.

Hemingway died July 2 of a shotgun wound in the head. Meeting with newsmen Saturday, Mrs. Hemingway said the noted author's attitude in the last hours of his life made her "feel quite certain that this in some incredible way was an accident."

FATAL SMASHUP — A Pocono Manor elevator operator, William J. Davis, 39, of Philadelphia, was killed early Saturday morning when the car he was driving ran off the road, plowed through trees and brush, smashed into three big trees, rolled over, and landed on its side. Davis was killed instantly. His body was found pinned beneath the right rear wheel and the fender. The accident occurred near Blakeslee Corners. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Redistrict Plan Bound For Assembly

HARRISBURG (AP)—A Democratic congressional reapportionment plan will be submitted to the legislature this week, state chairman Otis B. Morse said Sunday.

Morse said Democratic legislative leaders wanted to confer with Gov. Lawrence on various aspects of the proposal before it is submitted.

It will be the first plan to be offered by Democrats for redistricting congressional seats. House Republicans offered their own but it was promptly called silly by Lawrence.

Morse said the bill would redistrict congress seats on the basis of 27 instead of the present 30. For months Democrats and Republicans delayed introducing reapportionment blueprints hoping that congress would be enlarged to give Pennsylvania 28 seats in 1963.

The decision by Democrats to offer their own plan came after efforts to enlarge congress collapsed.

Pennsylvania stands to lose three of its seats because of population changes turned up in the 1960 national census. The state's rate of growth didn't keep up with that of other areas.

Reapportionment is certain to be discussed Monday when Democratic legislative leaders will hold their usual Monday morning briefing session with Lawrence.

Reapportionment action could just about kill off any chances of a final adjournment of the General Assembly by month's end. Combined with unfinished business in the field of public education, it could mean that the legislative session will last all summer.

Other developments: Lawrence's legislative secretary, Roy Schafer, said the administration would support a revised version of its bill to require chemical testing of drunken drivers.

The Senate revision deleted a provision that the person must take such a test or have his refusal used as evidence against him in court on charges of drunken driving.

"The bill was severely weakened but it still has a lot of merit," he said. House Democrats would be asked to support the revised bill when it is returned from the Senate, Schafer said.

Education — The House-Senate committee striving to agree on education legislation planned three more meetings this week.

Betsy told the writer that Hemingway seemed "terribly frail."

"He was like a young man who has written his first novel and is waiting for his reviews," they said.

Their visit came shortly before Hemingway and his wife went to Rochester. He was admitted to the clinic Nov. 30, discharged Jan. 23 and returned April 25, leaving again June 24.

Health Complicated

Clinic spokesmen said each time he was being treated for high blood pressure.

Mrs. Hemingway said Saturday the author's health was complicated by high blood pressure which did not respond properly to the usual treatment.

She told of a leisurely trip home to Ketchum from the clinic and of a dinner with friends the night before his death. She told of his joining her in a little folk song before retiring after a pleasant evening.

"All this made me feel quite certain that this in some incredible way was an accident," she told newsmen. "The gun was one of the favorite things he owned. He wasn't cleaning it, but he was certainly looking at it. I sometimes take out my camera and look at it although I don't plan to take a picture."

Betsy, recounting his November visit for the Tribune, said: "How thin his arms and legs. And he moved as an old man moves. 'I felt his physical condition must have been responsible for his quite shocking psychological complications.'"

"The man we saw was something of a ghost."

Hemingway was 61 when he died. Mrs. Hemingway said she possesses some of his unpublished works, including the manuscript of a novel and some poetry.

Resort Employee Is Fatally Hurt In Area Crash

AN elevator operator at Pocono Manor was killed instantly early Saturday morning when his car veered off Route 940, three miles east of Blakeslee Corners, and overturned.

The victim was identified as William J. Davis, 39, of 2421 S. Hutchinson St., Philadelphia.

Daniel G. Warner, Monroe County coroner, said Davis had a broken neck, crushed chest, and a possible fractured skull. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. James Kitchen, Pocono Lake.

Davis was driving alone, according to Fern Ridge State Police, at about 4:30 a.m. His car was apparently traveling at an excessive rate of speed, police said, when it skidded on pavement wet from a thunderstorm.

The car went off the road, smashed for about 60 feet through trees and brush, hit three large trees, rolled over, continued for another 20 feet and came to rest on its right side.

Davis was thrown out and his body was found pinned beneath the right rear wheel and fender of the car.

Davis was going east on Route 940 when the mishap occurred, apparently returning to Pocono Manor. The body was released to the Kresge Funeral Home, Broadheadsville.

Miss Taylor herself contributed more than mere words. She and her husband, Eddie Fisher, gave $100,000 to the recently merged Cedars of Lebanon and Mt. Sinai hospitals.

Among those who heard Miss Taylor tell of her feelings last March, when she almost died of pneumonia in a London clinic, were Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the President, Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Peter Lawford and Debbie Reynolds. Fisher's former wife.

This, said Miss Taylor, is what it's like to come within a shade of death: "Suddenly thousands of voices seemed to be crying within me, and it must have been death because I cannot describe a greater loneliness than what I felt."

"Dying, as I remember it, is many things—but most of all it is wanting to live."

"And in some ways this is the most frightening part—the desperate, frantic wish to live."

"Because without it dying could be almost easy, almost desirable — almost welcomed."

She thus described vividly what doctors have observed for years—how the will to live can perform medical miracles.

Police have said the girl has admitted kidnapping the Ashley boy and 5-year-old Richard Edgington, but has denied drowning Andy and denied the abduction of Susan Benedict, 5.

Super Jets, Giant 'Copters Soviets Display Huge Air Might

By STANLEY JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union gave a spectacular display of its air might at Tushino Airfield Sunday. It showed a bewildering variety of new craft ranging from two supersonic jet bombers to a giant helicopter that can carry a house.

Premier Khrushchev and cosmonaut Maj. Yuri Gagarin watched side by side. Diplomats in the stands speculated that the power display, the first Soviet air show since 1958, was intended to influence the rapidly developing Berlin crisis.

Impressive Show

"A very impressive show," said the U.S. air attaché, Col. Melvin Neilsen. "It's evident the Russians have continued with the development of all classes of aircraft."

Western experts said the United States has nothing to match several things, including a jet fighter that can switch on a liquid rocket engine booster in flight to give it a tremendous rate of climb.

These observers said the air parade showed the Soviet Union is not putting all its faith in long-range missiles.

Instead of conventional cannon, the fighters carried air-to-air rockets. The latest bombers were armed with air-to-surface missiles instead of bombs.

A delta-wing bomber, which the announcer said had a speed several times that of sound, was the most spectacular plane shown publicly for the first time.

It had four jets, two on the wing tips and two inboard below the wings. It looked bigger than the U.S. B52, which has eight engines, and it dwarfed a fighter plane shown with it.

First Showing

Running the delta a close second in interest for watching Western air attaches was a flypast of 10 heavy supersonic bombers.

This new model also was being shown publicly for the first time. Its two engines were mounted on the rear atop the long and slender fuselage. It had high swept wings. It was comparable in size to the American B58, whose publicly admitted speed is 1,500 miles per hour.

The pilot of the jet fighter with the liquid rocket engine lit up this auxiliary just as he passed the government reviewing stand. The plane, delta-winged, shot up into the clouds in a matter of seconds.

There were three other displays of new delta-wing fighters, all of which carried air-to-air rockets.

The Russians showed four editions of a new jet amphibious plane.

Good Morning!

Grief can take care of itself, but with joy you must have someone to share it.

Phil. Girl, 5 Killed By Car; Was Camping

DOREEN Marie Ross, 5, of 3270 Fordham Road, Philadelphia, was killed by a car Saturday about 2 p.m. as she crossed the road in front of the Jackson Township resort at which she and her parents were vacationing.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ross. The family was staying at a camp and cottage resort just off legislative route 45021 in Jackson Township.

The road goes from Appenzell toward Sciota, and the accident occurred six miles west of Tannersville.

Mount Pocono State Police said the driver of the car was Mrs. Helen Irvine, 39, of Macadam Road in Bethlehem. She is a teacher in the Bethlehem School District.

Police said the child evidently crossed the road in the path of the car and was struck. Her father took her to the Monroe County General Hospital and she was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. Morton Spinner.

Monroe County Coroner Daniel G. Warner said the child died of head and chest injuries.

Ex-Area Resident Killed After Two-Car Accident

FRANK C. YUTZ, 50, of King of Prussia, who graduated from Stroudsburg High School and East Stroudsburg State College, was killed in a two-car crash Saturday, two blocks from his home.

Yutz was a member of the Upper Merion Township School District teaching staff, having taught social studies, and was active in youth activities.

He was known as an all-around athlete in his high school and collegiate days. He graduated from Stroudsburg High School in 1930 and from East Stroudsburg State College in 1934.

He was particularly known for his baseball and basketball prowess in his school years.

A Quakertown couple and their children, riding in the second car, were injured in the accident, which occurred at 1:37 Saturday morning.

Yutz, returning home from his part-time job in Lansdale, where he was a guard for the Globe Detective Agency, was killed instantly. He received head injuries and a spine fracture in the collision.

The operator of the second car was hurried from his auto and suffered a bruised shoulder and a cut over his right eye. He is Paul Mindler, 41, of 905 N. Broad St., Quakertown.

His wife, Ruth, 38, received multiple abrasions of the arms and chest. Their two children were also hurt; Paul, 11, with bruises and cuts of the right leg, and Lou Ann, 7, who had bruises and lacerations of both arms, left side, and a toe injury.

Riding Alone

Yutz was riding alone in his car and was returning to his home at 626 Kingwood Road. He was making a left turn through the center strip area in front of the Upper Merion Township Building when the crash occurred.

The Mindlers were travelling north on Route 102. Yutz was trapped on the right side of his car as it crashed into a pole after the impact. Local policemen administered oxygen to Yutz, but he was pronounced

Accused Of Plot On Coup Planner; 44 Others Caught

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Charges of traitorous activity that might be punished by death are facing Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young, 38, fallen figurehead of the spring coup that put South Korea under military rule.

Spokesmen for the ruling junta Sunday accused the former premier of seeking to use American troops against Korean revolutionary forces and plotting with 44 other officers to kill the coup planner, Maj. Gen. Pak Chung-hi.

Charges leveled at a news conference called by the junta included a fantastic plot to gain actual control of the government. Chang had headed since Premier John M. Chung, no relation, was ousted through the May 16 takeover by the military.

44 Others Held

In an hour-long recitation, an intelligence officer said Chang and the 44 others were caught scheming to assassinate Pak and "other persons in the central force of the revolution."

Pak moved from deputy chairman to chairman of the Supreme Council for National Reconstruction—the junta—last Monday after Chang was forced to resign as premier and junta chief.

The Pak regime said the 45, including five junta members, were picked up that day after failing in one attempt to stage a counter coup and while planning another.

Under a law formulated two weeks ago, penalties for counter-revolutionary activities range from 10 years imprisonment to death. The stiffest penalty was reserved to be given to Chang and 12 listed as masterminds of the reported plot to kill Pak. It was presumed all 45 would be court-martialed.

Rumors that Chang would be charged with an assassination plot against Pak had circulated throughout Seoul for several days.

Lt. Col. Suh Chung-soon, deputy chief of the Central Intelligence Bureau, spun a tale of intrigue, counterplot and skulduggery on the part of Chang, who several days after the coup had five titles — defense minister, army chief of staff and martial law commander, as well as premier and junta chief.

House Arrest

Now, said Suh, he is under house arrest. The others were reported jailed.

The colonel contended Chang asked Gen. Carter B. Magruder, U.S. and U.N. commander at the time of the coup, to use his American forces to thwart the 3,600 revolutionary troops. Chang was also accused of poisoning Magruder's mind against Pak by calling him an unreliable person.

The U.S. 8th Army declined comment. Magruder retired June 30 and left Korea the next day for the United States.

Shortly after the coup it was learned that Chang had tricked Magruder beforehand into thinking no such uprising was in the works.

Most Of U.S. Has Pleasant Temperatures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE Midwest enjoyed some warming weather Sunday after going through another chill night which toppled records.

Much of the nation had a sunny, pleasant day.

Thundershowers and extensive cloudiness developed along the Gulf Coast from southern Georgia to central Texas where it was warm and humid. Lake Charles, La., received close to two inches of rainfall in six hours.

A scattering of thundershowers washed light local rains down on the Dakotas in the morning, and thunderheads built up over the northern Rockies.

The West, generally, was sunny and clear, with temperatures ranging from the 60s in the Northwest to the 100s in the interior California-Arizona desert region.

Readings in the 70s were widespread, but New England had some 60s. There was some early morning fog in New England, along the Atlantic coast in low spots and in the South. It dissipated during the morning.

The cold records set for July 9 included 43 at Cleveland, Ohio, and 45 at Milwaukee, both marks actually the lowest ever experienced in the month of July.

Flint, Mich., set a record for the date with a reading of 43. It was a record low 47 at Lansing, Mich., and Canton, Ohio. Grand Rapids had a record 48, Louisville, Ky., a record 52, and St. Louis 54.

Ship Aground; Hit By Blast

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP)—The Portuguese ship Save ran aground off this Portuguese East African colony Saturday night and then was rocked by an explosion. Reports reaching here Sunday night said at least 25 of the 550 persons aboard were killed.

It was feared the death toll might go higher since a number of passengers still are unaccounted for.

The explosion, believed to have occurred in munitions and fuel the ship carried, set the ship ablaze and fire raged out of control Sunday. The ship was reported breaking up under heavy seas.

National Guard To Train At Camp Hill In Virginia

EAST Stroudsburg's Company A, Pennsylvania Army National Guard will depart Saturday with other units from four northeastern Pennsylvania communities for their annual active duty for training at Camp Hill, Va.

Three officers and 121 enlisted men will comprise the East Stroudsburg unit. Their commander is Capt. Gerald E. Shanley Jr.

The estimated strength for this unit is 919. In addition to the local guardsmen, others who will participate will be units from Scranton, West Pittston, Carbondale and Honesdale. All are members of the 1st Battle Group, 109th Infantry, 28th Infantry Division.

The trip to the Virginia maneuver area will mark the first time since the 1953-54 reorganization of the 28th Division, following its Korean War service with NATO forces in Germany, that area guardsmen will maneuver at a military post other than Pennsylvania's Indiantown Gap Military Reservation.

The main body of troops will depart from armories early Saturday morning, July 15, for the 340 mile trip by military convoy to the Virginia reservation. Transporting the guardsmen will be 46 1/2-ton cargo trucks; 15 1/2-ton trucks; 37 1/2-ton jeeps and 14 scale body commercial type trucks for equipment.

Fire Damages Slutter Car

A CAR owned by Lester Slutter of Stroudsburg burst into flames late yesterday afternoon as he was driving by the corner of Scott and Ninth Sts.

According to Stroudsburg Fire Chief Robert Phillips, Slutter said he didn't know how the fire started.

Slutter pulled to the side of the road. The fire burned out the wiring, ruined the carburetor, and damaged the paint and windshield of the vehicle. The Stroudsburg Fire Department responded to the call with six trucks and about 50 men. The blaze was extinguished with a dry chemical extinguishing agent.

Skindivers To Resume Pistol Hunt

UNITS of the New Jersey State Police underwater squad will resume a search today for a pistol which a Bangor man confesses throwing into the Delaware River after using it to kill a Rahway, N.J., policeman.

The man, Thomas Gene Giamoni, 21, who formerly lived in Phillipsburg, N.J., and Stockertown, said he was relieved of a heavy weight of dread when he admitted the slaying to Easton Police Detective Chester Pensyl.

Pensyl quoted him as saying: "Every time a policeman walked past me, my heart would pound."

Giamoni was arrested for a burglary in Easton when he volunteered that he committed the killing on Nov. 28, 1958. Killed was Charles D. Bernoskie, a Rahway patrolman.

Easton police met Giamoni as a result of an anonymous call at 12:15 p.m. June 26 that three men were in the Econowash Laundry, Easton. Patrolmen Carl Scalzo and Dante Montoro arrested Richard Padula, 18, of 24 N. Main St., Bangor, the alleged lookout. Padula implicated Giamoni and a 14-year-old juvenile, who had fled.

Giamoni was arrested on request of Easton police by Chief Glenwood Lewis of Bangor. Pensyl and Constable Herman Pinsky went to Bangor and took Giamoni to Easton. On the way, Pensyl said, Giamoni admitted the burglary and mentioned Rahway, N.J. The questioning continued after the party reached Easton police headquarters.

Admitted Crimes

Giamoni's behavior under questioning was unusual, Pensyl said. He freely admitted the Easton burglary and similar crimes in Bangor and Pen Argyl. But several times he mentioned Rahway, and seemed "preoccupied," Pensyl said. Giamoni might have committed burglaries in Rahway and kept pressing about the city. Finally the story of the slaying came out.

Police are uncertain about the validity of the confession. Giamoni has had psychiatric treatment.

As a result of Giamoni's story, a four-man team from the State Police Underwater Recovery Unit from Trenton, N.J., combed the river bottom near the Phillipsburg end of the Jersey Central Railroad bridge, but found no weapon. They plan to work a full day today, if necessary, and to dig deeper into gravel and mud for the weapon which could have been shifted and covered by repeated high water.

As pieced together, this is how the story goes: Giamoni was hitchhiking from Phillipsburg when a man whose name he doesn't know picked him up at Clinton. Both he and the

Two Injured In Collision On Route 209

A THREE-CAR crash on Route 209 eight miles northeast of East Stroudsburg Saturday injured two persons.

Mrs. Julia Gary, 61, of Brooklyn, N. Y., received cuts of the scalp, right leg and elbow. Her husband William had cuts of the scalp. Both were treated at the Monroe County General Hospital and discharged.

They were riding in a car operated by Charles Lehman of New York City. Other drivers involved in the accident were Esther Moore, of Lansdale, and O. H. Wilson, of 121 Maple Ave., East Stroudsburg.

Local Driver In Minor Crash

A DELAWARE Valley Transportation Co. bus, driven by a Stroudsburg man banged bumpers with a car at 6th and Washington Sts., Allentown, Saturday.

The bus driver was John McConnell of 1124 N. 5th St., Stroudsburg, and the car's operator was Robert Edwards of 933 Walnut St., Allentown. No one was hurt.

driver admitted being short of money and the driver proposed "knocking off a place." They parked near a garage in Rahway and the driver went inside.

Giamoni, according to police, said the driver left a pistol in the car with him. Giamoni waited a bit and then got out of the car carrying the gun. A policeman stopped nearby, and walked along the garage, saying something to Giamoni but which Giamoni didn't catch because of the stormy weather. Giamoni said he "just raised up" the gun and fired "two or three times." Giamoni and the driver parted in Paterson and Giamoni returned to Phillipsburg. He said he tossed the gun into the Delaware River about 50 yards north of the bridge, a place where he played as a boy when he lived in Phillipsburg.

Glider Lands At Echo Lake

A GLIDER pilot hit an "air pocket" while winging his way from Wurtsboro, N.Y., to Baltimore and was forced to make a landing yesterday afternoon at Echo Lake.

The pilot was identified as Karl Nassauer, about 42, of Wurtsboro. He landed his ship in a field on the property of the Sunnyside Baptist Conference Center at Echo Lake.

This was supposed to be another one of Nassauer's weekend jaunts to Baltimore from his home in New York State. But the "air pocket" over the Pocono Mountain retreat forced him to land.

Nassauer is a member of the Metropolitan Air Hoppers Soaring Assn. of Wurtsboro. He left his home in New York State, ing hoping to reach Baltimore but his flight came to a halt here about 3:25 p.m.

About 40 children of the camp were preparing to hold vesper services just as Nassauer was descending. They ran from the services long enough to see if he landed safely then promptly returned. Little or no damage was done to the gliding machine. Nassauer was unhurt.

Nassauer telephoned a friend, William Padgett at Rutherford, N.J., to come to the Poconos. The two men disassembled the glider and hauled it away.

The aircraft has a wing span of 49 feet and is valued at $3,500. It was made in Germany by the Schleicher Co.

Nassauer, who had made several trips previously to Baltimore, calls his glider the "Norva."

The machine is equipped with drag brakes on the wings which assist immensely in such "unscheduled" landings.

Ex-Politician Admits Taking $350 For Favor

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—former Democratic ward leader and sergeant-at-arms of city council is quoted by the Philadelphia Bulletin as saying he accepted $350 as a political contribution from a contractor who alleged later he was victim of a shakedown attempt.

The newspaper, in a copyrighted story Sunday, said John J. Fitzpatrick acknowledged that after he received the money from contractor Michael D'Amato he arranged for a zoning bill to be introduced in council.

D'Amato's allegation that Fitzpatrick and others tried to get $2,500 from him for the zoning change is being investigated by the district attorney's office as part of the current City Hall scandals.

Fitzpatrick, once regarded as a bright young man in the organization of Rep. William J. Green, city Democratic chairman, denied that the $350 was a payoff or that he knew anything of the alleged demand for $2,500.

Slow To Move

Nearly everybody in Congress shares President Kennedy's conviction that the federal regulatory agencies need to be overhauled in the interest of speed and efficiency.

Former President Eisenhower was of like mind; last year he reactivated a White House conference which originally had been created in 1953 to study agency procedures.

Apart from the disclosures of unethical conduct involving several agencies in the last decade, delay, caused by excessive red tape, lack of planning and unnecessarily long hearings, has been the chief problem.

In a special message to Congress in April, Mr. Kennedy said that "it is clear that some advance in the methods by which the regulatory agencies dispatch their business is essential if they are to become, as Congress originally intended, effective aids to the growth of our private enterprise system."

But while Congress may agree to the need for action, it has thus far given half-hearted support to Mr. Kennedy's short-cut approach to reorganization of the agencies.

It recently cleared White House proposals for the Federal Trade Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Earlier Congress rejected the same plans for the Federal Communications and Securities and Exchange commissions.

At the heart of Congress' reluctance, of course, is its traditional resistance to any diminution of its power through executive order. Rule-making and rate-making are legislative functions which were delegated to the agencies by Congress. Some members feel, therefore, that the White House proposals violate congressional privilege.

But beyond the question of prerogative, the voting on each of the four proposals thus far has uncovered a puzzling pattern of opposition. All the reorganization proposals are similar.

Each would give rule-making authority to commissioners, hearing examiners and boards of employees in an effort to speed their work. Each would also give the agency chairman authority to assign functions to the commission or individual commissioners.

Yet in the Senate, for example, some senators voted one way on one reorganization proposal and the opposite way on another.

It could very well be that Congressional hesitancy may be due to a desire on the part of some members to make sure they don't block their own paths to the agencies' back-doors.

Action, Not Words

Senator William Z. Scott, Carbon County Republican, has done this city a service with his last ditch effort to compel the General Assembly to act on the matter of Philadelphia City-County consolidation.

He is doing what the eight Philadelphia Democratic Senators have not done, and his record as a sincere and able Senator is an answer to cynics who might allege that he is only attempting to put the Democrats on a spot.

The bill he has introduced is by no means extreme. It proposes—as have several past bills smothered by the Democrats—to give City Council the right, subject to public referendum, to merge or integrate the offices of Sheriff, the Board of Revision of Taxes, the Registration Commission and the City Commission into other city departments, as need be. He is, in a way, trying to shame the House, which has similar bills in pigeonholes, into some action.

Maybe Senator Scott took Congressman William J. Green, Jr., the Democratic city chairman, at his words of last week. Green, urging his party workers to roll up new registration highs, told them to give the people this message:

"The Democratic Party strives at all times to nominate and elect men and women of high competence who will give the people dedicated service in public office. This is the Democratic position and it has been carried out unswervingly. Its effect has been the establishment of sound, liberal, enlightened and far-seeing government for all the people in Philadelphia, in Pennsylvania and Washington."

Robbing Uncle Sam

Manufacturing and servicing rockets and missiles is not like making candy. As things stand today, the very life blood of the nation is dependent upon the speed and efficiency of the production.

Nevertheless, it is on the record that certain Americans have taken advantage of the urgency of this situation to place this country at a disadvantage vis-à-vis Soviet Russia.

The record shows that on Feb. 27, 1961, the deputy secretary of defense, Roswell L. Gilpatric, issued a memorandum which stated as follows:

"Reports have been made to this office concerning excessive overtime work on contracts related to missile and space programs, including activities at test sites and operational sites under construction."

It is particularly important at this time that our missile and space programs meet present schedules. It is also important that these programs be pursued with maximum efficiency and at reasonable cost as well as speed, and that employment opportunities be expanded wherever possible.

Excessive overtime results in reduced efficiency, unreasonable costs, and unnecessary restriction of employment opportunities.

It is always possible to work slowly so that overtime becomes necessary. Such slow work is sabotage and this has been a fairly general practice at the missile bases. Involved in this situation are not only workers but also contractors and government officials who have been lax in their handling of improprieties. Also, it has been unfortunate that not enough publicity has been given to this subject.

General Thurman, in testifying before the Senate Permanent Committee of Investigation has taken the position that the responsibility to carry out a contract is the contractor's. He testified:

"Now, sir, I don't consider it to be mediation, conciliation, or any of those things when I tell a contractor with the Air Force who is carrying out a job at one of our missile bases and there is a strike going on—I don't consider it a violation of anything to tell that contractor 'I consider it your responsibility to find an answer to this situation, and I am expecting you to do it.' I have done it."

Senator McClellan then asked him:

"Notwithstanding the fact, now, that it may be a jurisdictional strike over which he has no control?"

To this General Thurman made this astonishing reply:

"Notwithstanding that, sir, or anything else. It is the contractor's responsibility."

The Pennsylvania Story

Dems Uneasy

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg—There is considerable squirming on Capitol Hill these days—perhaps not without good reason.

You'll find the squiggling and it's prevailing within the Democratic Legislative Administration framework.

For Pennsylvania donkey riders the situation is somewhat unique—that is, unique from this particular standpoint:

Within administration hands rests the decision on when the 1961 Legislature shall adjourn.

This session marks the first time they have had the organizational say-so in both the House of Representatives and the Senate.

It is true that since the advent of the first Democratic administration of temporary times—that of the Leader Administration which blushed into life back in 1955—Pennsylvania Democrats have in fitful fashion controlled the House of Representatives.

Not so the Senate, however. Not so, that is, until this year when with a 25-25 split in upper chamber membership they found themselves faced with organizational control via the post of Lieutenant-Governor and Senate presiding officer—who is a fellow Democrat.

As the Senate presiding officer, he is the one who holds within his vest pocket the power to break a tie—and in a 25-25 vote split, can cast the deciding and 26th vote necessary to carry the flag one way or the other.

Thus what happens along legislative channels within the next few weeks rests solely within administration legislative arms.

With a gubernatorial legislative-congressional election upcoming next year the decision obviously will be one of highly strategic campaign importance.

It should be noted that it has been Democratic administration legislative leaders—almost exclusively—who have been projecting final adjournment dates, ranging from back in May to now "sometime in July."

A "drag out" session is never regarded as any sort of help in campaign time—it simply does not smack of the "snappy, businesslike" session campaign artists like to talk about. And it is the majority party (in this case Democrats) who bear the responsibility.

These facts are worth noting as adjournment talk grows heavier. The subject is becoming extremely sticky and ticklish!

Note: Should the Legislature actually go into final adjournment—say by mid-July as administration leaders have been spiritedly talking—nearly 2000 bills would remain "pickled" in various House and Senate committees (many of which admittedly should remain thoroughly pickled) but many on the other hand of strictly major importance.

In this category are such top-flight questions to be resolved as (a) reapportionment, (b) education, (c) a full-out of the revenue picture (elimination of sales tax commissions), (d) labor legislation—to mention a few.

No action on these points this year—and they must be carried over to 1963 (inasmuch as the 1962 session must be limited to strictly fiscal affairs).

Of course the Governor could call a special session this year or next year. Unquestionably that would go down as a hallmark of efficiency!

They're squirming on Capitol Hill? That's putting it mildly.

About Town

One photographer to another: "You'll like it around here—lots of opportunities for advances."

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

The Newspaper Forum
From Carl E. Lindstrom's book, "The Fading American Newspaper."

"Curiously journalism (the recorder of change) has a red change, as if it meant death. The great threat journalism ever faced was the invention of the printing press. Every town crier, every king's herald every village gossip thought that he was out of a job. But the crying and the heralding and the gossiping went right on."

People have created countless ingenious machines. But no machine has ever changed people. The value of free journalism cannot be measured by the progress of technology but by the progress of the journalist.

John Denson, the Herald-Tribune editor, stated: "Does the important news of the world and the country have to be presented in such a dull way that no one pays any attention to it? Unless you create a desire to read, you can't make up the national mind and then you're really in the soup. I want this paper read—not just printed in type."

Interesting newspapers are read. Dull newspapers are dead.

From a trade paper: "Is it vital for would-be newspapermen to go to a journalism school. These days, some editors believe that such education is essential."

Ernie Pyle, Herblock, Lippmann, W. R. Hearst, Horace Greeley and Joseph Pulitzer did not attend Journalism schools. What would journalism be without such giants?

Gore Vidal, the playwright, testified: "I'm interested in the trouble with news reporting. For the most part, we have homogenized newscasters without points of view or edges. I'm happy they're putting Walter Lippmann on once a year. It's just enough to remind us how bad we others are."

There cannot be liberty without controversy or controversy without freedom. The leaders of the television industry must decide whether the medium will be stimulating and vital—or rich and senile.

Joseph Pulitzer Jr., the publisher, declared: "If the editorial opinions of a newspaper are to be sound, meaningful and influential, those declarations must rely on the most complete, unrestrained, accurate account of the consequential events of the day."

It's not enough for an editorialist to be a superior sharpshooter—he must aim at the right targets.

Ed Murrow noted: "There should never be any regulation prohibiting the free export of news or information, but both in television and the movies the people who produce the material might well have regard, not only for the income, but the impact. Some care should be exercised in the type of material we send abroad."

Freedom of expression cannot be limited without being destroyed. Those involved in mediums of communication have a single allegiance: To the truth!

Cuban Imports Continue

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington—Millions of dollars worth of Cuban products continue to pour into the U. S.—despite President Kennedy's warning that the U. S. would crack down against further imports of Castro's cheap molasses for gin-making purposes.

Since that was done amid a blare of publicity, a large shipment of tobacco has been delivered.

Worth approximately $500,000, the tobacco was purchased by Consolidated Cigar Co. and arrived at West Palm Beach, Fla., on June 28, aboard a ship under foreign registry. This consignment, passed by U. S. customs, was loaded on ten freight cars and headed for a warehouse in Philadelphia. Commerce Department records show that more than 3.6 million pounds of Cuban tobacco have been received by U. S. buyers in the past six months.

Also in that period Castro has sold to this country for dollars upwards of 5 million pounds of oranges, 3.5 million pounds of cucumbers, and some 3 million pounds of other fresh vegetables.

Since January, Cuban sales in the U. S. total around $25 million.

Under an executive order issued by former President Eisenhower last December, U. S. exports to Cuba are barred. Nothing was done about banning imports.

Representative Armistead Selden, D-Ala., chairman of the House Inter-American Affairs Subcommittee, outraged by this extraordinary situation, has arranged to discuss it personally with the president. Selden is doing this with the unanimous backing of his committee.

Inside You And Yours

Thiazides Safe

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.
With pills that paralyze kidneys, you can flush high blood pressure and heart failure down the drain!

In each kidney thousands of filters strain fluid squeezed from tangled knots of tiny blood vessels. Every day, 27 gallons pour through these filters into magic microscopic tubing.

Here, invisible chemical magnets draw minerals back into the blood stream. Water has to flow back, too, to keep your blood from thickening into red sludge.

Like doctors, each magnet is a specialist. Medicines that paralyze key magnets can lock extra salt and water inside the tubing. Trapped, this fluid has to pour out the kidneys and down the drain.

Easily Lost
And so you can easily lose that extra salt and water which builds up in the system when you have high blood pressure or heart failure. As the bladder works overtime, blood pressure plummets, swelling melts and you can catch your breath once again.

You probably recognize these kidney-paralyzing drugs as old-time "kidney stimulants". The chemicals in coffee and tea are two of the oldest.

But no pill ever worked so well with so few side effects as today's thiazide medicines. They can ease that heaviness and tension brought on by female hormones just before each menstrual flow or during those nine expectant months.

Glaucoma's painful pressure eases when fluid from that jam-packed eyeball floats down the drain.

Staggering Prevented
Daily thiazide pills can dry up water on the brain and keep you from staggering like a drunken sailor when extra fluid is crammed into tiny bony tubing inside the ear (Meniere's in these semi-circular tubes, you can't walk a straight line).

Because thiazides are so safe, doctors sometimes prescribe them to flatten morale during hard days of dieting. Now you, too, can lose up to 5 pounds in the first three days—even if it is all salt and water.

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Congressional Quiz

Farm Programs

Congressional committees are currently winding up hearings on President Kennedy's farm program, which is designed to stabilize the prices and production of farm commodities, eliminate costly stockpiles of surplus goods, and stimulate farmers' earning power.

The heart of the program is a proposal to delegate to the Agriculture Secretary and farmers the authority to formulate production-control programs, subject to approval by Congress.

The plan has run into strong Congressional and lobby opposition. What do you know about current and previous farm programs? Try for four correct answers.

Q—True or false: Parity, with respect to farm prices, means the price necessary to give the farmer an equitable return on his crops?

A—True. Parity is a formula to measure the purchasing power of farm prices.

Q—Name the current Secretary of Agriculture.

A—Orville H. Freeman. Mr. Freeman was formerly Governor of Minnesota (1955-61).

Q—The first major bill of the Kennedy Administration bill to be passed by Congress was a farm bill, designed to cut back production of a surplus commodity. The commodity was (a) feed grains; (b) tobacco; (c) wheat.

A—(a). The Emergency Feed Grains Bill for 1961 (PL 87-5) was signed by the President March 22.

Q—The soil bank program of the Agriculture Act of 1956: (a) allowed farmers to sell surplus land to the Government; (b) provided local banks with money to buy surplus farm land; (c) paid farmers for not planting part of their acreage.

A—(c). The original soil bank program had two parts: a temporary acreage reserve program, since discontinued, under which farmers were paid to reduce their plantings of cotton, wheat, corn and rice; and a conservation reserve, a long-term program designed to transfer about 25 million acres of cropland to forage, trees and water storage.

Q—Which of the following men did not serve as Secretary of Agriculture: (a) Charles F. Brannan; (b) Clinton F. Anderson; (c) Ezra Taft Benson; (d) Arthur S. Summerfield.

A—(d). Summerfield served as Postmaster General while Benson was Secretary of Agriculture. They were the only two cabinet members to serve throughout the Eisenhower Administration.

Q—President Roosevelt's first Secretary of Agriculture was largely responsible for the development of the Agriculture Adjustment Act. Can you name him?

A—Henry S. Wallace. Wallace was Secretary of Agriculture (1933-40), Secretary of Commerce (1945-46) and Vice President (1947-53).

Assistant Senate Democratic leader Hubert Humphrey's speech advocating that Red China be included in disarmament negotiations was approved in advance by the Kennedy administration. Humphrey was aided in drafting this address by State Department officials, and he discussed it personally with John J. McCloy, special disarmament adviser to the President.

In Humphrey's speech he said: "I think the Chinese Communists ought to be included in any disarmament negotiations if we really wish to disarm with security. Otherwise, disarmament will become a mockery and a fraud. This is not the first time I have made these remarks, but we seem to continue to blissfully go on ignoring this reality."

Mr. Gaylord, newly elected president of his lodge, experienced some difficulty preserving order at his first meeting. When fully ten members were on their feet hollering at the same time, Mr. Gaylord finally banged the gavel on the table and begged hoarsely: "Gentlemen, gentlemen! Let us keep this chaos orderly."

Foreign Flashes—Another significant indication of the strained relations between Moscow and Peking is the fact that Khrushchev has not given the latter any information about his Vienna meeting with President Kennedy. Other Communist leaders have gotten Khrushchev's account of these talks. But not the Red Chinese.

Jaycees To Sponsor Circus Performances Here July 18

VARIETY will spark the presentation of the world's largest tented attraction when Wallace Bros. Circus makes its appearance in the Stroudsburgs in July under sponsorship of the Pocono Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In an effort to include every ingredient of circus entertainment in their 1961 edition, Wallace Bros. are featuring high acts, wild animals, acrobats, tumblers, clown numbers and brilliantly costumed spectacles in addition to such novelties as trick riders and a tribe of full-blooded Yaqui Indians.

There is even variety in the various classes of presentations. As an example, the horse acts will feature Cookie Cristiani in a traditional bareback act, Elv Karoly in a dressage exhibition, and a western type horse act which stars Bennie and Vicki Rossi, trick riding and Roman riding champions.

To supplement the Hollywood Aerial Ballet, Jane King will appear over one ring in a spectacular high "cloud swing" routine, while at the other end of the canvas arena, Shirley Linde-man will display next-to-impossible feats on a single trapeze, climaxing her exhibition with a breath-taking drop catch by her heels. In a different type of high act, the Flying Wards perform on the ever popular flying trapeze.

As a contrast to the snarling wild animals of Capt. Blackstone's Maxcham Berty and his trained dogs are on hand for animal lovers, along with the herd of Wallace elephants handled by Oscar Cristiani and Col. Sam Davis.

An assortment of wire acts include the famous exponent of the tight wire, Juliano, in addition to Napoleon Zamperla and Luis Munoz. The Franciscos handle comedy assignments in a high wire specialty.

The Renaults will combine thrills and comedy in their unusual exhibition of leaps over the largest of the Wallace elephants, while a score of clowns will be on hand for fun-making duties throughout the performance.

Shows will be given at 2 and 8 p.m.

'Bimbo' Film Tells Story Of Circus

MOVIE-GOERS who admire the death-defying feats of high-flying aerialists and steel-nerved lion tamers will enjoy Joseph E. Levine's "Bimbo the Great," which starts Wednesday at the Skyline Drive-In Theater. This colorful picture, filmed in an actual circus arena, captures all of the sawdust flavor of the Big Top. Expertly, the film makers have given their picture a truly authentic circus atmosphere while presenting a dramatic story that crackles with suspense.

"Bimbo the Great" is mainly concerned with a veteran trapeze artist, whose career is threatened by a tragic accident on the high wire. Before he can regain his status as a Big Top headliner, he has to overcome his own fears and also match wits with his foe in the arena, as cunning a villain as seen on the screen in years.

In the title role of Bimbo, Charles Holm moves superbly through a role demanding the utmost both in acrobatic precision and acting ability. Eleanor Marlowe, as the whip-snapping animal trainer who aids Bimbo in his return to the circus, is surely the prettiest woman ever to walk into a lion's cage. And Henry Smith, as Bimbo's jealous assistant, is perfectly cast in his villainous role.

57. Allentown, at Lake Wallenpaupack begins at 11 a.m. Sunfish and sailfish sailing races will be held at 12 noon at the Big Lake. Bob Kranendonk and Jean Wolbert will present a program of sacred and classical music at South Sterling at 8 p.m.

Slow To Act On Naming New Judges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Only one appointment has been made so far to fill any of the 73 new federal judgeships created by Congress this year. But officials said Sunday the tempo is expected to pick up soon.

The legislation providing for the additional judges, urged by President Kennedy to help speed up the handling of cases in federal courts, was signed into law May 19.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., of the Senate Judiciary Committee told a reporter he understands Kennedy will submit nominations for most of the places before Congress adjourns. Labor Day is the target date for adjournment.

Eastland's committee considers all federal judicial nominations before the Senate votes on confirmation.

A Justice Department spokesman said he expects appointments would be made for at least half of the new district and circuit court judgeships prior to adjournment.

He said the administration is more interested in quality than in speed in selecting judges for lifetime appointments and that careful screening of possible nominees takes weeks.

"Hundreds of names are involved," he said, with recommendations submitted by governors, senators, lawyers, bar groups and others.

There also are political factors to be weighed. For one thing, a nomination is likely to run into difficulties if the appointee is objectionable to a senator from his state.

Of the 73 new judgeships created, the only one filled so far is that of a district judge in Mississippi.

Week's Schedule For Congress

Congress will be considering these matters this week according to indications Sunday:

Senate: Cultural and educational expansion bill; oceanographic research bill; Atomic Energy Commission authorization for later appropriations; tourist import allowance reduction.

House: District of Columbia bills; AEC authorization.

Hugh Scott Seeking To Revive Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., is listed among nine senators who plan a last effort to revive the Alien Orphan Adoption Act. Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., chairman of the House Immigration subcommittee, is reported in opposition.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., chief sponsor of a bill to extend two years the program that expired June 30, Saturday listed Scott as among those lending bipartisan support.

The program provided that alien orphans under 14 years of age and adopted by American citizens were eligible for admission to this country as special nonquota immigrants.

Walter, while acknowledging he had written Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy on the matter, declined to reveal the contents of the letter.

Senate sources said Walter proposed that Kennedy use his emergency authority to "parole" into this country outside of immigration quotas alien orphans under 10 years of age who are adopted by U.S. citizens residing abroad. The children would be eligible to become permanent immigrants after two years residence with their foster parents in this country.

Rulers To Meet

ROME (AP)—Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani has accepted an invitation from Morocco's King Hassan II to visit Rabat at an undecided date.

Three Arrested For Beating Cop

ABINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Three men were arrested Sunday in connection with the beating of policeman Harry Urbin last week, Upper Dublin Township police reported.

Urbin remains in critical condition at Abington Hospital. He was attacked while investigating a truck parked at night by a housing project.

Police identified the men in custody as William Boyce, 26, of Graterford, and George Bokita, 30 and Joseph Galleo, 34, both of Conshohocken. Boyce is being held in the jail here, the others in the Montgomery County Prison at Norristown.

No formal charges have been filed against the three men.

Blaze Damages Easton Prison

EASTON, Pa. (AP)—About 120 prisoners had to be evacuated from their cellblock into a central courtyard when fire broke out Saturday in Northampton County Prison. The blaze was brought under control in about an hour.

Fire Chief Andrew Ruppert of Easton said a short circuit in a light fixture apparently set fire to rugs used in the prison's carpet manufacturing department.

Ruppert said damage to the prison building appeared negligible, but there was considerable water around the carpet making machinery.

Van D. Yetter Mobil Homes, Dealer For Airstream Trailers

Learn To Be A Caravaneer Too

THE 4th International Airstream mobile home show at Hershey, took place July 4th said Van D. Yetter Jr.

This is when all those who can meet to celebrate the birthday of Wally Byam, who was the designer and builder of this fabulous travel trailer, and who had led the Caravaners all over the world. Byam was confined to the hospital in California and was unable to attend.

One thousand Silver Airstream Travel-Trailers were the host of the estate of Hershey. Several Monroe-Countians were present: Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Weiss of Brodheadsville; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Weiss Jr. and family; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Huffman and family of Cresco, and Mr. and Mrs. Van D. Yetter Jr. and daughter, Jean Marshall Creek.

There were people from all over the United States and possessions. The largest delegation was from California.

Fourth of July was celebrated by a spectacular parade led by the Hershey American Legion Band and followed by each unit presenting floats and paraders. First place went to the northeastern unit, depicting a float of the Pilgrim fathers and Indians at the first dinner.

Second place went to the Ohio unit who had the many presidents born in their great state.

Third place went to the Pennsylvania unit who had a float and marchers in early Pennsylvania.

Monday night at the theater a contest for the "Teen-queen of the Airstream Caravan" was held. Northeast district took first place.

The night of the Fourth skits were presented by the different districts, followed by an outdoor chicken barbeque in the stadium.

There were tours of the Gettysburg National Battlefield, Lancaster County, the Landis Museum, Cloisters, Stroudsburg Railroad and Roadside America.

The Fifth International Rally will be in Seattle, Wash. next year on July 4 at the World's Fair there.

Many of the Airstreamers returned home, many have gone on private touring parties, and several hundred are expected to follow the Wally Byam planned Caravan of northeastern Canada.

Airstream is a way of life, for relaxation, fun and the main objective being fellowship. Caravans have been through Africa, Asia, Europe, Mexico, and throughout the world.

There will be two Mexico Caravans in the winter of 1962, also a Northwestern Canada Caravan, Alaska Caravan, and a European Caravan. The adopted slogan in 1961 was "Home is where you want it to be, in an Airstream."

Van D. Yetter Jr., Route 402, Marshalls Creek is the local leader for Airstream Mobile Homes.

Now Is The Time To Make Plans For Cooler Weather

ACCORDING to Walter Stevens of Stroudsburg Furnace Company, West Main St. in Stroudsburg, time is drawing near when you should make sure that your heating plant is in good operating order and ready for the coming cooler seasons.

Stroudsburg Furnace Company specializes in cleaning, servicing and adjusting all types of heating plants. This is the time of the year when the so-called "gypsies" in the heating industry are coming into the area and selling their services of checking your furnace.

The best way to avoid buying unnecessary new parts and putting unneeded expense into your heating plant is to deal locally with the people whom you know and who have been in business for years in the area.

Stroudsburg Furnace Company are experts in the field of heating and air conditioning. Should your furnace require replacement, Stevens suggests a close look at the new Lennox Landmark All Season Air Conditioning system. This system conditions the air in your home for winter, fall, summer and spring operation.

Designed for 100 per cent comfort, the Landmark is made up of sections of the proper capacity to produce the heat.

Arrest Warrant Is Served On Knisley In Fatal Wreck

AN ARREST warrant has been served on John J. Knisley, 18, of Nazareth, who was involved in the accident that killed three members of a Stroudsburg family on June 17. Knisley has been transferred from the base hospital at Fort Dix, N.J., to the Philadelphia Naval Hospital. He is in the Air Force.

He was serving with an air weather unit at Ft. Monroe, Va. and was home on leave at the time of the accident.

Palmer Township Police Chief Charles B. Wenner went to the Philadelphia Hospital on Thursday and served the arrest warrant on the youth. It charges him with involuntary manslaughter, driving to the left of the center of the road, and reckless driving.

Wenner reported that Knisley will remain in the hospital until he is well enough to face trial. It is hoped that he can be brought to trial about next November, the chief said.

Knisley is one of two survivors that took the lives of Marcellus Carman, 36, driver of the other car, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Carman, both 60, who resided on N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, in a crash on the Nazareth-Tatamy Road.

Knisley suffered a fractured jaw, fractured leg, and other injuries in the crash. He was transferred from Easton Hospital to the Ft. Dix Hospital by two military police guards on June 22.

The other survivor, Glenn Wallace, 20, Wilmerding, Md., was also injured.

Mrs. John Joseph Ferritti

July First Nuptials Handalong-Ferritti

Miss Eleanor Ann Handalong, daughter of Mrs. Helen Handalong and the late Albert Handalong of Bangor, became the bride of John Joseph Ferritti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rinaldo Ferritti, Wind Gap.

Rev. Wortman officiated at the nuptial mass at the Holy Family Catholic Church, Nazareth on July 1.

The bride, escorted by her brother, Joseph H. Handalong, wore a gown of Chantilly lace over tulle and taffeta. It featured a Sabrina neckline and the long sleeves tapered to points at the wrists. The bouffant skirt was floor length Chantilly lace over taffeta. Her fingertip veil of French silk illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was a crescent of white roses and stephanotis with green ivy.

Mrs. Esther Due of Bangor, matron of honor, was attired in a ballerina length gown of blush pink with a candy pink cummerbund and crown. Her crescent bouquet featured white daisies and pink roses.

Miss Palmira Ferretti as bridesmaid wore a gown identical to the matron of honors. A white nylon and lace over taffeta gown was worn by Miss Deborah Lohman, the flower girl. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lohman, Bangor. Her flower basket contained white daisies and green ivy.

Bradley LaBar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence LaBar, Bangor served as ringbearer.

Charles Secho acted as best man, while his brother Robert served as usher.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the North Bangor Community Hall.

The Wyckoff Shopper

Ha! There's nothing like being fooled. Judging from the title, I thought "The Chapman Report" by Irving Wallace, would be something deep and dry, difficult to plod through, and definitely dull. But it isn't — believe me, and I might add it's one of the most discussed of current books when our Wyckoff women readers get together. One of the many best sellers available in paper cover, in our book department, it's only 75c

Another Irving Wallace book which, I understand, is fact rather than fiction, has just arrived in our store priced at 5.95. A study of the Mormons, it revolves around the character of Ann Eliza Young who was, as the title says, "The Twenty-Seventh Wife", and who rebelled against polygamy, even to the unheard of step of seeking a divorce. Many interesting books have been written around this phase of the Mormon religion, and this one looks as though it might be particularly enlightening and full of interest.

Reviews of Harpo Marx's autobiography, "Harpo Speaks", have been excellent, and this too is now on our book shelves. The famous comedian recounts his experiences in the theatre . . . his friendships with brilliant, fascinating people . . . and his philosophy about life in general and himself in particular. It is also 5.95.

A book loaded with charm for lovers of animals is Sheila Buenford's first — "The Incredible Journey," recounting the experiences of a Labrador retriever, a bull terrier, and a Siamese cat, that are left (supposedly for nine months) with friends hundreds of miles from home, and band together to find their way back. Shirley Hay and Florence Predmore tell me it's a remarkable account of their experiences as, in almost human fashion, they meet and solve their problems and privations. It's written so touchingly, but with such humor and drama, the tears come, and Shirley says her young daughter loved it as much as she. "The Incredible Journey", at 3.95, is "meant for everyone of every age, who has ever been owned by an animal."

Also on the racks (both for sale and in our lending library) is Leon Uris's "Mila 18" — a follow-up of his magnificent "Exodus". This new book is set in Poland and is a startlingly graphic account of life there at the time the Nazis established their fearful ghetto. Edna Brockman tells me it's a marvelous book, fictionalized, of course, and with a touching love story. But, she also says, one needs a strong stomach to read it and not be sickened by the pictures Uris has drawn of incidents that, tragically enough, were all too true.

Of interest to admirers of the late Dr. Tom Dooley, is a volume containing his three fine books, "Deliver Us From Evil", "The Edge of Tomorrow", and "The Night They Burned the Mountain". This is priced at 5.00.

In addition to all these, we encourage our reading public to see the racks with thousands of Modern Library books, as well as those with all types of reading material from the most torrid best seller to the most revered classic in paper cover.

I have called the attention of the girls in our gift wrap center to Origami, the Oriental art of paper folding, a knowledge of which can be theirs — or yours — through a kit priced at 2.00 in our stationery department. As a matter of fact, we have but one left, although Mrs. Predmore tells me she reorders regularly as this is a best-selling gift to keep hospitalized or confined children happy. Adults would enjoy it too, I am sure — I know I would, and Jean Decker feels the tricks might come in handy for wrapping unusual, imaginative gifts. The 2.00 kit contains a book of instructions, and a generous sampling of pretty papers in every conceivable color. Florence tells me larger sets for adults or experienced folders, are 5.00, and can be ordered.

Origami could open an entire new world of Slang-usage. When someone annoys a paper folder, he need never resort to such common phrases as, "Go fly a kite" or simply, "Scram". He can always look down his nose and say, "Blow, fellow — and fold me a hoot owl". And thanks to the directions, anyone could!

Designers Unveil Latest Fashions This Week

By Bobby Westbrook
Daily Record Family Fare Editor

New York—Curiosity, which leads many women to peek through the cracks of a curtain hiding a store window-dresser at work, also leads the fashion editors to peek at the advance fashion pictures which won't become official until they are modeled during this National Press Week of the New York Couture Group designers.

Official or not, the peak is reassuring. Hemlines are remaining reasonably static with some interesting variations. Waistlines? The picture is far from clear: mostly low but not all. Silhouette? Colors? Fabric?

These are questions whose answers will be spelled out in detail for the nation's fashion press during the week at the Hotel Pierre in New York. Showings will start at the top with a millinery luncheon. The closing spot has been left this year, again, to Oleg Cassini, whose selection as official designer for Jacqueline Kennedy automatically makes him a headliner.

Trigere, Blass, Dior

Headlines will also be made in between but just where the lightning will strike is anybody's guess. However, informed fashion reporters keep a sharp eye on Pauline Trigere, a member of the Fashion Hall of Fame. Ben Zucherman, maestro of tailoring fashions, has this year been elevated to the Hall of Fame. A second Winnie has added stature to Bill Blass, designer for Maurice Rentner.

The New York branch of Christian Dior is already in the news created by the $120,000 lawsuit being brought against the House of Dior by its former designer, Saint-Laurent, seeking to regain the position he lost when he entered military service. Five of his designs have been quietly incorporated into the New York collection for Fall.

Sole new-comer to the tightly-knit group is Rosalie Macerini, who will be scrutinized closely. At the other extreme, the fashion press thinks it knows exactly what to expect from such arch-conservatives as Davidow, and the figure flattery of Ceil Chapman.

David Gothe To Show

Among other names bound to make news during the showings are George Carmel, Monte Santo & Pruzan, David Gothe, Sara Ribault for Herbert Sandheim, Roxane for Samuel Winston, Adele Simpson, Hannah Troy.

Men will not be forgotten, either, with the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear presenting a special breakfast showing. Children's fashions will be featured by Helen Lee and Alyssa.

Hair styles and trends in make-up will also have their place in the schedule: a breakfast by Coty; Fall make-up and coiffures by Elizabeth Arden; a hair-coloring luncheon by Clairol; a cocktail party given by Lilly Dache, whose hair-dresser Kenneth, designer of Mrs. Kennedy's coiffure, won a special Coty fashion award this year.

Latest developments in furs and fabrics will be presented at special events during the week. Shomakers and watchmakers, diamond merchants and jewelry specialists will demonstrate how their products have been keyed to the coming trends in fashions.

From this welter of information, the representative of The Daily Record will report important fashion trends, hoping to make it possible for the readers to buy on a rising tide of fashion which will carry them through coming seasons in high style.

Just Between Us — —

Entertainment provided for fashion writers during National Press Week often varies as much as the fashions themselves. There have been fashion shows in jets in flight, on an aircraft carrier at anchor, at a military base, and in a Tibetan Temple on Staten Island.

This year the big entertainment news promises to be MEN. Moved by the previous plight of 250 unescorted women vainly tapping their toes when the band strikes up, the Wool Bureau has drafted all of its mill members to serve as Ambassadors of Good Will at a dinner dance to be held on the patio terrace of the Fashion Institute of Technology.

FTT, as it is known, is in itself newsworthy. It is a 13-million dollar, nine-story terraced college campus close to the garment district. It has an enrollment of 2,000 students and features displays of high fashions of today as well as of other eras.

Personalities will vie in interest with places during the week. Dick Haymes and his wife, Fran Jeffries, currently drawing raves for their night club act will entertain at the Diamond Dinner at the Waldorf Astoria. Anita Colby will serve as commentator at a breakfast fashion show.

Two major theatrical events have been arranged. At a theatre party they will see Anna Marie Alberghetti in "Carnival," one of the hit musicals in New York, and in a "junket to Jersey," they will take air-conditioned buses to Cedar Grove where they will have dinner and attend the Meadowbrook Theatre-in-the-Round to see "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

All in all, it looks as if the nation's fashion press will have plenty of hi-links as well as high fashions to report to their readers at home.

Whip Braves; Sweep Series

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bill Virdon's two-run single in the seventh inning Sunday gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-4 victory over the Milwaukee Braves and completed a sweep of the three-game series.

Walt Moryn drove in the other three Pittsburgh runs with his second and third home runs of the season.

The Pirates thus ended Lew Burdette's five-game winning streak.

All three games in the series were decided by one run, giving the Braves six one-run defeats in their last nine starts and a 12-15 record in one run decisions for the season.

Still Lead

Despite Moryn's two homers, Burdette went into the seventh with a 4-3 lead by virtue of a three-run rally at Clem Labine's expense in the fourth.

Tigers Down Angels Twice; Lead By Percentage Point

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers jumped back into first place in the American League Sunday by a margin of one percentage point, beating the Los Angeles Angels twice by scores of 1-0 and 6-3 behind the pitching of Frank Lary and Jim Bunning.

Lary raised his record to 13-4 with a strong three-hitter in the opener and Bunning won his ninth game in the nightcap, although he required ninth-inning help from Hank Aguirre.

The double victory, coupled with New York's split with Boston, left the Tigers one point ahead of the Yankees.

The only run in the opener came in the second inning when Los Angeles starter Eli Grba

The double victory, coupled with New York's split with Boston, left

The Angels drew close with two runs in the fifth but Bunning worked out of that jam by striking out Steve Biko. The Angels got their final run in the eighth inning off Biko's 12th home run, but by that time the Tigers were comfortably ahead, thanks to a three-run splash in the sixth inning.

Starter Ryne Duren, who lasted only four innings, was the loser.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie

Roland Sheldon allowed just five singles while pitching his second consecutive shutout as the New York Yankees beat Boston 3-0 for their fifth straight victory Sunday, but the Red Sox then broke loose for 13 hits in the second game of the doubleheader and won it 9-6.

Red Sox rookie Carl Yastrzemski had four consecutive hits in the nightcap and twice paired with

Gary Geiger for double steals. In all, the Sox swiped five bases off

Yankee catcher Johnny Blanchard

while collecting their second victory in 12 games.

Elston Howard had three hits and Roger Maris belted his 33rd home run in the opener for the Yankees, who had 11 hits off loser

Bill Monbouquette (8-7) and Gene

Conley.

Sheldon Fans Seven

Sheldon, 24, a right-hander, struck out seven and didn't walk

a man while winning his sixth in a row for a 6-2 record.

The Red Sox then handed ailing

Red Terry his first defeat in six decisions this season in the six-

cap. The young right-hander, sidelined by shoulder trouble since

June 15, gave up only three hits in 11 1/3 innings, but two unearned runs in the first nailed him with the defeat.

Boston went to work on reliever

Jim Coates for five runs in the fourth inning, then severed it up on

RBI singles by Yastrzemski and

Jensen in the sixth against Tex

Clevenger. The last two runs of the big fourth inning scored on a sacrifice fly—when Yogi Berra fell to the turf after grabbing Jim

Pagliarini's long cut to left.

Rookie Don Schwall (7-2), was the winner.

Jets To Right Field

Lefty Power Makes American League Choice

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The American League is favored in Tuesday's All-Star Baseball game because of the left-handed power of Roger Maris, Mickey Mantle, Norm Cash and Co. and the jet stream that blows to right field at Candlestick Park.

To minimize this lefty power, Manager Danny Murtagh of Pittsburgh and the National League is expected to pitch a southpaw. He has three — Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles, Warren Spahn of Milwaukee and Mike McCormick of the home town San Francisco Giants.

Spahn Possible

Koufax probably is the best bet because of his fine first half record, although Spahn is closing in on the 300-win mark and could be the sentimental choice. McCormick has been treated roughly in recent starts.

Whitely Ford of New York, the outstanding pitcher of the year with his 16-2 record, is almost a sure thing to start for the American. The chunky left-hander has been ineffective in All-Star games with an 0-2 record for five appearances. In fact, he is the only American Leaguer to lose two. The National's starting lineup is heavy on right-handed power hitting into the wind.

The American League, managed by Paul Richards of Baltimore, is eager to recapture prestige with a victory. The National has won nine of the last 13 games and also has captured five of the last seven World Series. However, the American still has a 16-13 edge in All-Star play.

The teams will play their second 1961 game in Boston July 31.

Home run production at Candlestick Park has doubled this year after the trying experiences of 1960 when only 80 were hit all season. An inner fence cut the distance some 25 feet in left center and 18 feet in right center although the foul line distances, 330 feet, remain the same.

National Leaguers have been batting the wind here for two years, but they still lose an occasional ball in left field where the currents are tricky.

All seats have been sold for the game. San Francisco's first All-Star show. That means a capacity crowd of about 42,300. The game will be carried on radio and television (NBC). Game time is 3 p.m. EST.

Champs Hold Bonanza Crowns

JEANNE May, Mt. Pocono and Jack Reinhardt Jr., Mountaintown, successfully defended their titles as king and queen of the hill Saturday, on Eonanza Bowling.

In the men's preliminary, Dick Andrew, Stroudsburg, downed Ray Possinger, 4-2. Andrew was defeated by Reinhardt 3-1 in the King of the Hill match, which went 14 frames.

Lois Moore whipped Ida Gray 1-0 in the ladies' preliminary but lost to Jeanne May 2-1 in the Queen match.

Both champions return to Colonial Lanes next week to defend their titles.

Pitchers Jay Hook of the Cincinnati Reds and Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phils tied for the dubious honor of serving up the most home run balls in the National League in 1960. Each threw 31.

Detroit Tiger outfielder Charley (Paw Paw) Maxwell lives in Paw Paw, Mich., hence his nickname.

Twins Finally Win In D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Camillo Pascual set the Washington Senators down on five hits Sunday as the Minnesota Twins finally broke the jinx of their former home park with a 7-1 victory.

Earl Battey smacked two home runs and a double in leading the Twins' nine-hit attack. Pascual struck out nine, raising his season's total to 108. It marked the sixth straight season the Cuban right-hander has struck out more than 100 batters.

In winning his seventh victory against 11 losses, Pascual got the support he needed in the first three innings, when the Twins climbed on starter Tom Cheney and reliever John Klippstein for six of their runs.

Bennie Daniels gave up one run and two hits in four innings and Dave Sisler blanked the Twins on one hit the last two innings. The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the Twins. Pick up linescore, 23.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 4. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Leader Hails Radio Project

WARSAW — Personal satisfaction and pride that Ethiopia was chosen as the site of the proposed Africa-Asia short-wave station of the Lutheran World Federation was expressed here by that country's Minister of Post, Telegraph and Telephones.

The minister, Emmanuel Abraham of Addis Ababa, told the LWF Executive Committee, of which he is a member, that he prayed that God would use the federation's radio venture to strengthen the Christian cause in that part of the globe.

Abraham, who is also chairman of the Imperial Board of Telecommunications of Ethiopia, called attention to the fact that from ancient times this country has been an "island of Christianity" in East Africa and the Near East.

Burns Seeks New Trial

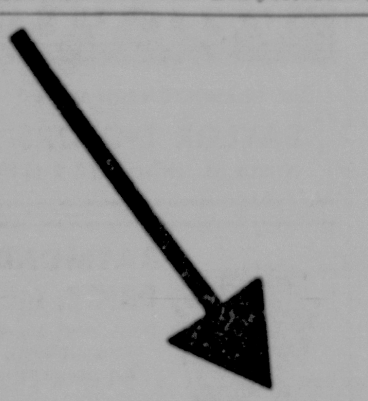

EBENSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Council for Cambria County Commissioner Frank Burns, convicted of embezzlement July 5, has filed a motion for a new trial.

They listed 17 reasons they claim warrant a new trial.

Most of the reasons are alleged errors on the part of Judge George W. Griffith. The lawyers also claimed evidence produced by the prosecution was insufficient to sustain a guilty verdict.

Burns was convicted of embezzling $6,710 from the county home while he was superintendent. He is free on $2,500 bond pending the outcome of the motion for a new trial.

Dear Abby

High Society, She Says

Dear Abby: My husband's boss invited us to their home for an evening. We were told "not to dress up." I almost fainted when they greeted us at the door. The husband was completely bare on top, and was wearing shorts. Both were barefoot. They are in their late fifties, and weigh over 200 pounds apiece. I found it revolting to look at them. Him, with his big stomach hanging in layers over his shorts, and her, with rolls of fat flopping around. In addition to this, the veins in her legs stood out in red and blue knots all over. I tell you I couldn't wait to leave. Are we old-fashioned? Or is this the way "high society" entertains the working stiffs?

people do not entertain their guests in the get-ups you described. This "high society" has a very low ceiling.

Dear Abby: I am a widow about to marry a widower. We love each other very much, but I am very hurt because of his attitude toward his deceased wife. On Memorial Day he bought the most expensive spray of flowers, took it to the cemetery and placed it on her grave. I've mentioned this, and he says no one else remembers her and he feels it is his duty. I think it is nice to remember the dead, but why overdo it? I have found a new life and am willing to forget my loss. Can't he do the same?

LIVING TODAY

Dear Living: You should consider yourself very fortunate to get a man who is so generous, sensitive and kind. Doesn't it give you pleasure to know that, should you go first, he will cherish your memory and not "forget his loss" quickly? Think it over.

Dear Abby: I went out with a clod—and I mean a first class drip — because he pestered me for a date for months. I had a miserable time. I couldn't even stand to let him hold my hand. He has been bothering me for another date ever since. I don't want to go out with him again. Every time he calls I tell him I am "busy," but now he says, "YOU name the time when you are free." I am stuck for an answer. Please tell me how to discourage this guy without coming right out and telling him he nauseates me.

MUCHACHA

Dear Muchacha: Tell him you think too much of him to let him waste his time and money on a girl who thinks of him as a "brother." This will cool off the most amorous amigo.

Confidential to Syl: Don't be a sap. Let him do his own laundry. He has plenty of soft soap handy.

What's bothering you? For a personal reply, write to Abby, care of The Daily Record. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
